The Portfolio is actively managed and current holdings and characteristics may be different. The holdings listed should not be considered recommendations to buy or sell any particular security listed. The Russell 1000 Growth Index measures the performance of large-cap U.S. growth stocks. An investor cannot directly invest in an index. Price-to-Earnings Ratio is the price of a stock divided by its earnings per share. Turnover is the number of shares traded for a period as a percentage of total shares in a portfolio.

The performance data quoted represents past performance, which is no guarantee of future results. Investment return and principal value of an investment will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. The Fund acquired the assets and liabilities of the Pioneer Oak Ridge Large Cap Growth Fund (the "predecessor fund") on October 17, 2014, at the same time as a change in control of the Advisor. As a result of the reorganization, the Fund is the accounting successor of the predecessor fund. Performance results shown in the chart and the performance table above for the period prior to October 17, 2014, reflect the performance of the predecessor fund. The predecessor fund acquired the assets and liabilities of another fund on February 13, 2004. Performance results shown for the period prior to February 13, 2004 reflect the performance of the prior fund. For Class A shares, a contingent deferred sales charge ("CDSC") of 1% will be imposed on certain redemptions of such shares within 12 months of the date of purchase. No sales charge applies on investment purchases of $500,000 or more.

Beta is a measure of the volatility of a fund relative to the overall market. A beta less than one indicates lower risk than the market; a beta greater than one indicates higher risk than the market. Alpha is a measure of the portfolio's risk-adjusted performance. When compared to the portfolio's beta, a positive alpha indicates better-than-expected portfolio performance and a negative alpha worse-than-expected portfolio performance. Information ratio is a measure of portfolio management's performance against risk and return relative to a benchmark or alternative measure. The Sharpe Ratio is a risk-adjusted measure calculated to determine reward per unit of risk. It uses a standard deviation and excess return. The higher the Sharpe Ratio, the better the portfolio's historical risk-adjusted performance. Standard deviation is a statistical measure of the historic volatility of a portfolio. Active Share is a measure of percentage of stock holdings in a portfolio that differ from a benchmark index. Upside/Downside capture is a measure of relative performance versus an index during quarters when an index had positive returns or negative returns, respectively.

Important Risks: Equity securities, such as common stocks, are subject to market, economic and business risks that may cause their prices to fluctuate. Investments made in small capitalization companies may be more volatile and less liquid due to limited resources or product lines and more sensitive to economic factors. The Fund invests in foreign securities which involves certain risks such as currency volatility, political and social instability and reduced market liquidity. Emerging markets may be more volatile and less liquid than more developed markets and therefore may involve greater risks. The Fund invests in ETFs (Exchange-Traded Funds) and is therefore subject to the same risks as the underlying securities in which the ETF invests as well as entails higher expenses than if invested into the underlying ETF directly.
